Booking System Explanation

Firstly the Booking System is an adaption of a system designed for event planning. An example would be a show that goes to various locations and sells tickets for each show.

Various Calendar and booking systems were investigated and in our particular case we needed something that allowed for recurring bookings as well as the usual means of displaying what was booked and what was available. Not many software booking systems permitted recurring events.

The system chosen is not perfect for purpose but with a few adaptations can be made to work satisfactorily.

For instance an “event” means a booking in our system
We have no need to list a different location for each event and in our system we use the field to give a name to the user group (Lions, Parents, etc.).
